

SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Q.—How hot was it Sunday.
A.—Enough.

I see by the papers that World's Champion Heavyweight Schmeling, has "black listed" Mr. Graham McNamee as a broadcaster of any of his future fights. Maybe Graham talked too much about himself and not enough about Schmeling during the recent Schmeling-Sharkey fiasco, or maybe it's just something else about the fight that is "schmeling."

There are two things my wife and I have failed to agree upon. One is the volume to which the radio should be pitched and the other is the pronunciation of the old vegetable "tomato." I pronounce it with a silent "mah."

When the kind voiced radio announcer sweetly told us, Sunday afternoon that the orchestra would "now play one of those delightful 'Cuban airs,' I moved right over in front of the loud speaker. Which only goes to show how easily one can misinterpret.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q.—Who will be the new School Board member?
A.—If I knew I would tell.

Notice.—In time of flood rush to the Court House sidewalks for refuge.

The Democratic Editors "gathered" at French Lick last week end. In order to inform the unsuspecting public I will divulge the secret that the think they gathered was a bunch of designing politicians. Why, just before a campaign, those office and job seeking politicians follow an editor just like flies go after sugar.

The old electric fan has come into its own.

I rise to remark that that hot weather we farmers have been wishing for is now with us.

Society Note—Jack Onkin, Terre Haute, who recently purchased the Sudranski store here, spent Saturday in Greencastle, closing up his business affairs before leaving. Sunday, on a year's business retirement, Jack, who prior to his coming to Greencastle, was engaged in selling machine guns to bootleggers and hijackers, left Sunday for Columbus, Ohio, where he will do some special work for the Government for a year and a day.

If it is as hot yesterday, as it was tomorrow, I'm ready to admit that weather conditions oft vary.

LANDING FIELD TO BE CONDITIONED

"WE" ARE THREE; LONE EAGLE IS FATHER OF SON

STORK ARRIVES ON MRS. LINDBERGH'S TWENTY-FOURTH BIRTHDAY—BABY BORN AT MORROW HOME

BOY WEIGHS 7 3/4 POUNDS

Colonel Lindbergh Takes Event Calmly—Arrival of "Eaglet" Breaks Up Birthday Celebration Scheduled For Morrow Home

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 23.—(INS)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is today the fond "dad" of a son.

"We" are now "three." The baby, a fairly lusty infant, was born at 3:15 yesterday afternoon. He weighed seven and three quarters pounds, and by a happy coincidence, the stork arrived on Mrs. Lindbergh's twenty-fourth birthday.

Both Mrs. Lindbergh and the baby were reported in fine condition this morning. The mother is the former Anne Morrow, daughter of Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

The baby was born in the palatial Morrow mansion where Mrs. Lindbergh first saw the light exactly twenty-four years ago yesterday.

Speculation was rife today as to what name Anne and "Lindy" would give the child. Two of the best guesses were Dwight Morrow Lindbergh and Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr.

The famous "Lone Eagle" is said to have taken the event calmly. He had no comment to make regarding the arrival of the "Eaglet."

Ambassador Morrow, however, was jubilant. Shortly after the baby was born he went to the home of Douglas Thompson, former mayor of Englewood, and exclaimed:

"I'm a grand-daddy! Isn't that great news?"

Ambassador Morrow was more excited over the arrival of the baby than he was over his recent victory at the polls when he was nominated Republican candidate for United States senator from New Jersey.

"They say the baby looks like his father," one of the Morrow servants told waiting reporters.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindbergh were married May 27, 1929. They have become known as the perfect air couple. They made many flights together.

Despite her approaching motherhood, Mrs. Lindbergh clung to her custom of accompanying her famous husband on flights. Only four days ago they flew together to Hartford, Conn., from Teterboro airport, New Jersey.

Mrs. Lindbergh had invited several friends for a quiet celebration of her birthday yesterday. The celebration was postponed, however, but all immediate members of the family remained in the Morrow home throughout the day.

"For weeks, 'Lindy,' it is said, had been hoping the child would be a boy—on 'Eaglet,' who some day may fly the air lanes with at least some of the skill of his illustrious 'daddy.'"

A GANGSTER IS ACCUSED OF THE LINGLE MURDER

JAMES "RED" FORSYTHE, MORAN-AIELLO GANGSTER NAMED BY CHICAGO POLICE AS THE SLAYER OF JAKE LINGLE

NATIONWIDE SEARCH MADE

Chicago Churches Hold Meeting to Consider Gang Situation—Detectives To Be Sent Back To Patrolling Beats Soon

By W. F. PETERSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 23.—(INS)—James "Red" Forsythe, alias Fawcett, definitely accused as the actual assassin of Alfred Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, was the object of a widespread manhunt today.

Accusation of Forsythe came after a dogmatic assertion by a high police official last Saturday that the slayer was known.

Lingle was put on the spot just two weeks ago today. His murder signaled a concerted drive against gangland.

Authorities today bent every effort to gathering evidence which might bring an indictment against Forsythe by the Grand Jury.

Forsythe is a reputed henchman of the Moran-Aiello gang, a rival of the Capone organization. Lingle was a friend of Capone and several times visited him at Miami.

A year ago Forsythe was sentenced to a year in the house of correction and fined $200 on gun toting charges. The appellate court has just confirmed the sentence and unless Forsythe surrenders his bond will be forfeit.

When he imposed sentence, Judge John H. Lyle told Forsythe:

"I will not hand you back your gun. You look like a potential murderer to me. I hate to say that, but it is true. I certainly would not want to take a chance in the dark with you."

Judge Lyle said later that great political pressure was brought to bear on him to vacate the sentence, but he stood pat.

When taken into custody in a raid on the alleged Moran headquarters in the loop several months ago, Forsythe asserted he was an employee of corporation counsel Samuel Eitelson's office, and it was shown that he was on the corporation counsel's payroll. He was released.

Two other developments were outstanding today in Chicago's war on gangland.

Protestant churches of the city were to meet and get the "low down" on the local crime situation.

Acting Commissioner of Police John Alcock was to give out the list of 700 erstwhile detectives who are to go back to walking beats in uniform.

While seeking Forsythe authorities were also concentrating on their search for Foster, former henchman of the Moran-Aiello gang who recently deserted to take up a place in the organization of "Scarface" Al Capone.

Foster is being sought in an effort to learn how the snub-nosed revolver came into the hands of the Moran forces, police announced. Authorities believe the killer deliberately laid the revolver beside Lingle's body in the Illinois Central subway so that it might be traced to Foster and thus place him under suspicion for the killing.

The gun was traced by Ballistics experts who were able to raise the serial numbers on the weapon by the use of acids although the numbers had been filed off.

The death of Thomas D. (Drake) Brookshire, age 68, occurred suddenly Sunday night, June 22, at 11:30 o'clock, of apoplexy, at his home in Roachdale. Mr. Brookshire was one of the county's most prominent farmers and community leaders.

GOVERNMENT TO START WORK ON AIRPORT AT ONCE

TO LET CONTRACT FOR NECESSARY GRADING OF THE BROWNING FARM SITE ON JUNE 30

ENGINEER IS ON THE JOB

Emergency Airport Will Be Ready For Use by Air Mail Pilots by Early Fall—Complete Lighting Equipment To Be Installed

Conditioning of Greencastle's Government Emergency landing field, on the old Browning farm, just southeast of town, will be started immediately according to Paul Morris, an engineer for the Airways department of the U. S. Department of Commerce, who is in charge of the work.

The site—the one on which the Indiana Air Tour airplanes landed last Tuesday—has been approved and accepted by the Government engineers and work will be started immediately so as to have the field in perfect condition by fall.

The program for conditioning the field calls for the moving of a large amount of dirt; leveling and seeding. It is estimated that 1528 cubic yards of dirt will have to be moved before the work of leveling starts. After the field is leveled, providing two runways, then the field will be leveled and planted in grass. A contract for the work, which is estimated, will cost near $1,400, will be let Monday, June 30. Bids will be received at the post office.

Mr. Morris, engineer in charge of the work, will be here next Thursday to meet any persons who desire to bid on the work. He will be at the field all day.

Beside conditioning the field, a complete lighting system, by which the field will be illuminated every night, will be installed. The system will be an automatic character the lights coming on every evening at sundown and going off each morning at sunrise.

Revolving beacon lights, also to be installed along the national road, will mark the air plane route, and a stationary light on one of these huge masts, will point to the emergency landing field.

The new emergency landing field will be one of four between St. Louis and Indianapolis. Others will be built at Casey, Ills., Effingham, Ills., and Greenville, Ills. They will follow the Government's established airline mail route across the continent.

GRAND JURY STARTS PROBE OF TORCH MURDER TODAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 23.—(INS)—The Marion County grand jury today began an investigation of the High School road torch murder mystery of May 31, in connection with which Harold Herbert Schroeder, 35, was being held at Mobile, Alabama.

Even as the grand jury plunged into the probe here, word came from Montgomery, Alabama, that Governor Bibb Graves of that state had honored the Indiana requisition for Schroeder on an arson charge.

Prosecutor Judson Stark, who filed an affidavit here Friday against Schroeder, charging him with arson, hoped to get an indictment of Schroeder on a first degree murder charge and thus send him to the electric chair.

The local authorities charged that Schroeder killed a hitch-hiker, burned the body, left papers bearing his own name on the body in the hope that the victim would be identified as Schroeder, so that $64,000 in insurance policies would be paid to Mrs. Schroeder.

The charred and dismembered body of the man found in Schroeder's burning automobile here has not yet been identified. The latest report that was being investigated here was that the victim might have been Victor Raymond, 35 of Philadelphia, Pa.

Sheriff George Winkler of Marion County, presented the requisition papers to Governor Graves at Montgomery and then left at once for Mobile to get Schroeder and return here.

CITY LIBRARIAN STARTS ANNUAL TREASURE HUNT

PROJECT TO INTEREST CHILDREN IN READING GOOD BOOKS AND A REWARD OF A DIPLOMA FROM EXTENSION DIVISION OF INDIANA UNIVERSITY BEGIN TODAY AT LIBRARY

The third annual treasure hunt of the public library for the children of the grades and high school students opened today. Several children registered and all those who wish to enter the hunt are requested to go to the library and register within the next few days.

The idea of the treasure hunt is to stimulate good reading, and after the required number of books have been read and the report made to the librarian, Mrs. Delilah Thomas, the pupil is sent a diploma from the Indiana Extension division of Indiana university.

The treasure is a hidden phrase or sentence in the book and the story must be carefully read to find the treasure.

This year all new books are being used for the hunt and are books which have not been put on the shelves of the library, which will give the boys and girls to read the latest books. Lists have been compiled suitable for the various ages and grades.

Last year a hundred and twenty-three took part in the hunt and this year it is hoped that many more will avail themselves of the opportunity to read books during the summer.

List of the books and of those registering will be published later.

TWENTY DEPAUW STUDENTS MAKE STRAIGHT A GRADES

A final report from the registrar's office at DePauw university, shows that twenty students carrying full time work, made a record of straight A grades during the semester just closed. Fifteen of these are Rector scholars. Division as to sexes shows that fourteen were men and six were women students. Among them is Max Bowman of Greencastle.

Of these twenty students who made perfect records, seven were freshmen, five were sophomores, four were juniors and four were seniors.

Ten students who did not carry the full load of fifteen hours were able to report straight-A grades for the hours they did carry. These are Joseph P. Allen, Greencastle; Minna Mae Bartley, Greencastle; Robert Kimberlin, Danville, and Town Stephenson, Greencastle. All of these were seniors who needed only a few hours to be graduated. Nine were men and one a woman student.

Famous Connoisseur Grades Beauty

Russell Patterson, Noted Artist, in Special Interview, Awards Highest Points to Grace Coupled with Charm.

CATHERINE DALE OWEN.

LILY DAMITA

(Courtesy of Hal Phylis)

By ALICE ALDEN

Just what IS beauty? Like love is the most fragile, the most ethereal element in the world, and yet since man was first dazzled by the loveliness of woman, the world has endeavored to analyze beauty, to reduce it to a formula. Can it be done? Maybe, by scientists and writers, but not by artists. And yet it is only by seeing beauty through the unbiased eyes of art that we can learn to construe or define it.

Talk to an artist about beauty, and you will find that there is surprisingly little he can tell you about it. Yet his views are more illuminating, more revealing than any man who over fancied himself a connoisseur of feminine pulchritude. There is one artist, famous for his drawings of beautiful girls, who thinks that the layman who sets himself up as an arbiter of beauty in the world's supreme egoist. That artist is Russell Patterson, who works in a studio that is a fitting background for the glamorous process of "beauties" who have paused in their triumphant march long enough to be immortalized by his rich talent.

Grace is Beauty

As far as Russell Patterson is concerned a girl's face is not her fortune. For on points he would award the face only twenty-five points, reserving the balance for figure, line carriage, grace, movement and posture. Grace, to Patterson, is beauty, grace, coupled with that indescribably wonderful attribute that we know as "charm." Features are not important, it is the coloring that counts, the eyes the hair and the contrasting complexion and quality of the skin. Beauty, insists this famous artist, is given out, and points in proof to several of his most famous models who by contrast with the colorful girls one sees everywhere are comparatively colorless and interesting. Girls whom the average man would not even find interesting, Patterson finds wonderful and even supremely beautiful. For they are girls able to create the impression of beauty—the most important thing of all.

Love Adds to Charm

Patterson tells of the most beautiful and perfect model he ever employed who could instantaneously suggest a Cleopatra or a little stenographer washing her hair to get that "golden glint" to dazzle the latest boy friend. The girl was not beautiful, yet she gave out a series of beautiful poses and pictures that delighted the world after she had been seen through the quizzical eyes of the artist. Suddenly the girl became drab, uninteresting and indifferent. Adroit questioning revealed the secret of her infatuation for a man not interested in her. When the infatuation died, then beauty and charm came back. For the girl was again giving out herself—her real beauty to the world instead of diverting it to one person. The average pretty woman is of course infinitely more attractive when she is in love, but Patterson contends that it is because hers it not the real beauty, only a superficial prettiness. And prettiness is the easiest attribute to be found in the world today. And beauty, by the same measure, consequently has become the rarest.

Blonde or brunette, which is the most beautiful. The average man may again have very decided opinions about this agitating question, but not Russell Patterson, who says that he draws and paints blondes merely because they are easier to work with and technically simpler to transfer to canvas or drawing board. More beautiful than either blonde or brunette, he insists, is the girl of in-between or mixed coloring. The most beautiful and decorative girl he ever painted was a petite damsel with dark red hair and large dark blue eyes. Her features were not perfect, but everything was forgotten in the glory of her exquisite coloring.

It is usually awfully hard, to pin down an artist to deliberately select and name beautiful women. But Russell Patterson has definite opinions on this quite important matter.

Elusive, Ethereal Type

To him Catherine Dale Owen is the most beautiful blonde and petite Lily Damita represents beauty of the elusive, ethereal type—the rarest type of all, according to many artists. Both of these girls, says Patterson, are absolutely unconscious of their beauty, and both have cultivated many other qualities, including charm and vivacity. For in a world of lovely women beauty is not enough and Patterson has one word of advice to women who would be beautiful and who spend their lives chasing beauty. "Strive to be decorative," he advises. "Refuse to strive for beauty of the standardized type, whether the beauty be that of a movie queen or professional breaker of masculine hearts. Strive to be beautiful in the eyes of those who love you and your quest for beauty will be a successful one." For the old adage that "beauty lies in the eyes of the beholder" is more true than ever today, with beauty on sale in almost every shop and department store.

TO CONDEMN LAND FOR USE AS RIGHT OF WAY

CRAWFORDSVILLE, June 23.—Nine condemnation suits involved that is being pre-empted for use as right-of-way on state road 43 north of the city were instituted in Montgomery circuit court Saturday morning by Attorney General James M. Ogden.

The suits are the outgrowth of the failure of the property owners to compromise with right-of-way agents for the state highway commission who attempted to settle for the appropriated land without the necessity of court proceedings.

Acquisition of the land was made necessary by the slight shifting of the road at a number of places along the route. The road is being moved to the west of the present route at several places so as to get further away from the tracks. At other places the route is being shifted so as to eliminate dangerous curves.

Let's go Clara Bow! Those who snapped up the entertainment treat the "It" girl offered at the Voncastle theatre last night had an hilarious evening. She is there again tonight and Tuesday and for a joyful good time, go Bow!

Clara has more "It" than she ever showed before in "True to the Navy." Surrounded by a dozen or more love-smitten navy gobs, she shows what is good for the male ego. None of the boys make any headway with the "Redhead" until Fredric March, the some handsome hero who stole her heart in "The Wild Party," lands right. Then Clara gets a taste of her own fickleness.

Clara, a soda fountain girl in Harry Green's drug store, makes "It" a big business. All the sailors from the battleships in the harbor flock to the drug store for ice-cream sodas and a smile from Clara. She plays them all, collects the souvenirs, and says goodbye with a smile. She has a special boy-friend on every ship and manages to keep them separated until the whole fleet, and all her specials, drop anchor at once. She is sunk. Then she meets Fredric March, a woman-killer gunner's mate, and marches to the altar with him over the prostrate forms of half a dozen other smitten swains.

Added to this bill is an all-talking Lupino Lane comedy "Purely Circumstantial" and the Paramount Sound News.
